MAKING A DIFFERENCE THROUGH SOARING TO GREATER HEIGHTS

HOUSTON, TX – The Airport Minority Advisory Council recognizes Bradlink for advocacy and contributions made in lifting small, minority, women and disadvantaged businesses toward success in Aviation during the June 2011 Annual Airport Diversity Conference and Expo held in Ft. Worth, Texas. Bradlink, jointly with their mentor, AECOM and the Houston Airport System, received the award for their efforts and was recognized as the Organization of the Year.

Bradlink's leadership has helped MWDBE firms to seek Aviation opportunities, served as the catalyst to revamped the City of Houston's Office of Business Opportunity Mentor Protégé Program and continues to play an advocate and difference maker role as Chair of Government Procurement Connections (GPC) which connects MWDBE firms to agencies and large primes.

Our Mentor, Frank Wengler, AECOM Vice President noted, "It's a fantastic honor to have been recognized by the highly regarded Airport Minority Advisory Council for this prestigious award. AECOM believes the collaborative effort with the Houston Airport System and Bradlink has developed valuable best practices to encourage and foster sustainable growth in M/WBE participation."

Ms Callier, Bradlink President stated "The Bradlink team is grateful to have received the Airport Minority Advisory Council's Award for Organization during the annual Airport Diversity Conference. Bradlink's joint recognition with AECOM, our Mentor, and the Houston Airport System speaks volumes about the strength of collaboration in making a difference in assisting MWDBE firms in growing their business at HAS and in the Aviation Industry as a whole."

AMAC is a national, non-profit trade association dedicated to eliminating barriers that may exist for minorities and women owned business in the Aviation Industry while providing resources to help such firms grow and become sustainable.
